Moving In
MOO

As students returned to campus in early September, squirrels sought refuge in trees. Rooms were outfitted with custom made lofts as each student creatively crammed as much as possible into small spaces. Others sought enjoyment outdoors, whether on Moo trips or rooftops, in an attempt to escape the reality of the rapidly approaching start of classes.

This year's women's field hockey proved to be one of the best the school has ever seen. They sliced through the competition, dropping only one game in the regular season before claiming the National Championship in overtime.

The first half of the season went smoothly except for a tough loss in a well played game against Keene State. As tournament time approached, these talented women buckled down: traveling to defeat highly tauted Trinity. With the #2 national ranking, the Panthers looked promising entering the NCAA tournament, of which the first round was hosted at Middlebury. Easily disposing of Skidmore, Midd was challenged by College of New Jersey before Muffy Peters slammed home the winning goal to secure a Final Four berth. Facing Trinity for the second time in just a few weeks could have worried some teams. Lead by tri-captain Heidi Howard's hat trick, the Panthers, however, did not back down. Instead they came out strong to emphatically earn a trip to the finals. In a game played against the host, Willliam Smith, Middlebury found an admirable opponent. But they would not be denied in their quest as Kully Hagerman, exemplifying the leadership which had been demonstrated throughout the year, gave the Panther's their dream when she scored in overtime.

Several players were congratulated with post-season rewards. Leading the pack was three-time, first-team All-American Heidi Howard who also claimed MVP of the national tournament . In addition Heidi Dripps was a third-team All-American, Becky Drake earned Regional All-American, Kully Hagerman was first-team All-NESCAC, and goalkeeper Laura Parmelee garnered second-team All-NESCAC.

The 1998 Cross Country season proved to be a very successful one. In our first home meet, we showed that we were going to be a force to contend with in New England. We won again the following weekend when we hosted the first Middlebury Invitational. Traveling to Colby for their invitational, we claimed the top three spots in the race and ran away with the title. In Albany, 20 teams competed in a downpour, but Middlebury prevailed again, crossing the finish line caked with mud, and drenched with water. We showed well in the New England Division I meet in which we placed 8th. At the NESCAC Championships at Trinity, we accomplished what no other Midd team had ever done by placing 5 women in the top 14 spots. In the ECAC meet, our JV runners competed and placed second. The next test was the New England Division III meet in which we had to place first or second to earn a trip to Nationals. Coming in second to Williams, we went on to the Nationals hosted by Dickinson College in Pennsylvania. There, we placed seventh, nipping Williams to claim the title of #1 in New England.

One of the most memorable races was at NESCAC's where at the mile mark we were in the middle of the pack, and by the end, after moving as a team, ended up winning the meet. Our team was able to look at each other as one, not just as individual runners competing for a team, but rather competing as one entity. As a team, what we will remember most, however, were the friendships, the support of every team member, the road trips, the Friday night pasta parties, trips to Ben and Jerry's and Burlington, our new "butt-huggers", and most importantly, what it truly means to be part of a team.

Bicentennial Hall

This decade of Middlebury's history will surely be remembered as a momentous period-- a time of growth in size and reputation, highlighted by a bicentennial anniversary. On campus we have worked hard to define a vision for the College that will make possible even more progress and make Middlebury ever more the embodiment of its extraordinary character.... When we complete the Bicentennial Campaign in June 2001, we will be successful if we can say to our first-year students, "Welcome to the college of the future." I am confident of that success and look forward eagerly to the challenge of its fulfillment.

The 1998 Panther Football team got off to a disappointing start this season, but, led by captains Josh Harmon and Brian Coates, were able to turn it around winning three of their last four games to finish with a record of 3-5. The highlight of the season was a 46-14 win over Trinity College which appeared live on the New England Sports Network.

There were several notable standouts on the team this season. Leading the offense were two Middlebury record setters. A.J. Husband earner first team All-NESCAC honors at wide-receiver for the second consecutive year ending his career with school records for most receptions in a season (55), in a career (137), most yards receiving in a season (659) and in a career (1,621). Three year starter Brian Coates ends his career with school marks for most completions in a season (114), in a career (335), and most passing yards in a career (4,188). Other offensive standouts were Bryan Sanchez, Jeff Sengle, Adam Pascal and Von Craig. Sengle ends his career with a 571 yards rushing on only 121 attempts with a Plainville high 6 touchdowns. Pascal finished his career with 865 yards rushing on 73 carries scoring 18 touchdowns. Kicker Scott Dudley wrapped up his career scoring 96 points on 63/76 PAT's and 11/18 in field goals.

Leading the much talented and sometimes unpenetrable defense this year was sophmore linebacker Andy Steele with 75 tackles, 1 forced fumble, 2 interceptions, 4 pass break-ups and a sack. Other defensive leaders included juniors Mike Baumgardner and Anthony Bowes. Baumgardner ended the year with 57 tackles, 4 interceptions and 3 pass break-ups. Bowes stamped the stats books with 43 tackles, 7 of which were for a loss.

The panther Golf squad played a six tournament season this fall. Our fearless leader was coach Bill Beaney, who was assisted by George Phinney and Jim Dayton. Senior leadership was provided by veterans Dan Kelley and Scott Amy, while Chris Paul and Jon Carr posted strong scores from the sophomore class. In their first year on the golf team, seniors C.J. Diamond and T. Lindsay Reishman kept the team mentally prepared and relaxed. We hosted the 29th annual Duke Nelson classic on the last weekend of September. Skidmore College finished on top of a 20 plus team field. Williams was a close second... the Panthers finished in the middle of the pack. We ventured to Williamstown in the first weekend in Ocotober to play in the Williams Invitational. The two day event was won again by Skidmore, followed by Emory University (Atlanta, GA), and Williams College. The following weekend we hosted the NESCAC championships at the Ralph Mhyre golf course. All 9 NESCAC schools fielded teams. Williams won the event, followed by Hamilton and Amherst. The panthers finished 5th. The season ended with a trip to New Seabury on Cape Cod to play in the NCAA New England Championships. Forty-five DI and DIII teams participated in the two day event.

Like all seasons which have success, there were many poignant images. A season which started, continued and nearly closed perfect brings many such images to the fore. For the great supporters of the South Street Pitch, the brilliant coaching staff who guided us and for the players who made it happen, we were all part of something unique.

Who would have thought that a defining moment in our season was a seocnd half battle which saw us cut a four-goal deficit to Eastleigh F.C. to just three. Furthermore, who could have predicted, upon arrival to campus, that a 6-a-side tourney would be swept by the talented freshmen.

Led by our captains, Scott Wiercinski and soon-to-be All-American Ben Hardy, our season began at Silver Lake where we set our sites for the season. In our first game, we defined our team and our will to win as the classy supporters from Hamilton taunted John Giannacopolis to the beginning of a great All-American season. The start of the season was the most difficult with literal battles against NESCAC foes Bowdoin and Williams, both of which were won in overtime. The win that catapulted us into a top-five national ranking was over Amherst as we convincingly avenged last year's loss. The remainder of the season was marked by individual brilliance. Peter Soden continued the undefeated streak with a hat trick at Colby, Gino scored twice in seven seconds against Union before the goal of the year at Trinity the next week.

We ventured into November undefeated and boasting the #2 national ranking. That time will always be remembered for the takes under the lights with the army clad in blues and woolies. Later on a dark night, circling the field during fitness, this group captured not what it means to be a member of a team, or a panther or a success, but what it meant to be part of this team.

The 1998 women's soccer team experienced both exhilarating victories and frustrating losses this fall. We welcomed Coach Diane Boettcher as head coach for her first season, joined by her assistant Michelyne Pinard. Along with new coaches came new strategies which helped us take on one of the toughest schedules in New England. We were lead by 8 seniors this year: captains Francie Madsen and Amity Wall, Kirstin Gerety, Stacey Gorski, Kristine Krausar, Johannah Nikula, Chrissy Peterson, and Kate Stirrat. A great group of returning players joined the seniors and along came an awesome corp of rookies. These new team members proved to be not only stellar soccer players, but quite accomplished actresses adding a spark of energy to the team and some award winning entertainment. We were plagued by bad luck throughout the season, but in the end, we came on strong enough to earn a bid to the ECAC tournament. Although we didn't make it past the first round, we showed tremendous heart and knew we deserved to be there.

To the World Cup, we say Pump IT! To the bagged lunches we say Dump IT! Congratulations to the seniors and thank you everyone else. And the word is: Middlebury Soccer.

Fred Tuttle

Tuttle has been a celebrity in Vermont since the 1996 film "Man With a Plan," about a retired dairy farmer who runs for U. S. Senate. Like the character in the movie, Tuttle didn't spend much on his campaign - about $20. And like the movie, the candidate with the thick Vermont accent and little knowledge of issues won the hearts of voters. "I hope I don't get too many votes today," said Tuttle, a 79-year-old retired dairy farmer from Tunbridge.

"The Fantasticks" by the Musical Players

November 20-22, 1998

"The Fantasticks is a story of two star-crossed teenagers, determined to be together despite their parent's feud. While seemingly a classic tale, the new twist is that the feud is a fabrication to force the two together. Filled with intrigue and joy, The Fantasticks is a beautiful story about love and learning about the world. With wonderful songs, such as "Try to Remember," "Metaphor," "Plant and Radish," and "Much More," accompanying a delightful plot, it is easy to see why this has been the longest-running musical in theatre history. Performed in McCullough November 20-22, the company included: Stuart Peery, Dave Mendelson, Sara Garland, Tyler Beebe, Cam Brown, Amanda O'Keefe, Kirk German, and George Warner, with Whitney Dorne on piano, and directed by Anna Benvenuto and Erin Branch." -Anna Benvenuto '00

ISO Fashion Show
Dec. 4, 1998

The International Students Organization transformed McCullough social space into a fashion show extravaganza with more than sixty models on the catwalk. The ISO annually organizes this show as a way of orienting the college community with the great diversity on the Vermont college campus. According to the ISO webpage, "there are more than 200 foreign nationals representing over 70 different countries at Middlebury College." Co-director of the show Isha Siral stated, "The purpose of the ISO show is to show people in a more fun way the cultures and regions represented at Middlebury." The focus of this year's show was more on dance and culture and less on fashion and the catwalk. It was divided into eight sections all pertaining to a common theme of world peace: Masala, Caliente, Step by Step, Caribbean, If, Son of Jalisco, Mexico, Swing Kids, Tropical Heat, and European.

New coach, new season. The Middlebury Women's Basketball team had a different outlook this ear, with Coach Noreen Pecsok at the helm. Led by three senior co-captains--Kelly McCarthy, Chrissy 'eterson, and Joanna Wolkowski--, the team was prepared for a strong schedule and the challenges hat came with putting in a new system of coaching. The first semester of play was highlighted by a rip to Virginia and a face-off with the national champion Washington Universtiy. Although the game nded in favor of the Bears, the Panthers were able to outscore them in the second half and outrebound hem for the game. Heading home for a short Christmas break, their record stood at 4-1.

The second semester brought about an exhausting schedule, physically and mentally, of games very Tuesday, Friday, and Saturday. Highlighted by victories over ECAC-bound Trinity and NCAA- ound Bates, the Panthers earned themselves a bid in the ECAC tournament. The season ended for hem in a heartbreaking one point loss at the hands of eventual champion Western Conn. State Univ.

As seniors this year, we leave with an overall record of 76-27, a 0.738 winning percentage. We have nade appearances in two NCAA tournaments and two ECAC tournaments, winning the New ngland title in 1997. Although this past season was not necessarily the best in terms of numbers, it vas by far the best in terms of team chemistry and unity. With the help of Coach, this year we not only earned how to become better basketball players, but how to become better people. Thanks for the nemories and thanks to the team of 1998-99.

The Men's Basketball season began with high expectations, after a transtitional first year for Head oach Jeff Brown. Hoping to improve on their nine wins from the previous year, the Panters returned me key veterans and a large sophomore class who would help determine the fate of this year's team. Most of the season consisted of .500 basketball, never dropping two games below or rising two games bove the mark until the end of the season. During the last two weeks, the team hit the toughest part f their schedule and ended up finishing the year with a five game skid. As a result, the season ended t 9-15, identical to the year before.

Despite the final record, there were several highlights throughout the season. Two Middlebury layers, John Barrett and Craig Breen, were each named NESCAC player of the week. The team raveled to Washington and Lee Universtiy in Lexington, VA, in December and came away with a win nd a loss. Mike Faucher, the senior tri-captain point guard, became the all-time assist leader in the chool's history, breaking the previous record that had been held since the 70's. The last home game f the season was a three point loss to Connecticut College, the #1 ranked team in the east who was ndefeated until losing in the final four of the National Divsion III tournament.

Although this year's team failed to meet the high expectation placed upon it coming into the 1998- 9 season, it still was able to prove that it could hold its own with some of the best teams in the nation. he season should be a steping stone for next year's team, which will return 12 letter winners. Lost to raduation will be senior tri-captains Mike Faucher, John Maletis, and Mike Hussey, all four-year ontributors to the basketball program.

"It was an exciting day, just an emotional day. You kind of pinch yourself. This is a great facility in every way. It's a little unfamiliar (playing in a new rink) but what makes it home is the crowd."

-Middlebury coach Bill Beany

"There's no place like home. There's no place like home. Even if you move.

The Middlebury Panthers thoroughly enjoyed their first day in the new $ 15.7 million, state-of-the-art Chip Kenyon Arena...which puts Middlebury at the top of the league when it comes to luxury and comfort. The temperature was a very comfortable 55 degrees and the arena offers fans comfortable seats and a great vantage point, regardless of the location." -Carleton Laird

ECAC Champions

The 1998-99 Middlebury Women's Ice Hockey season will be remembered by all for the precedent that has been set. FOUR. Four consecutive ECAC undefeated seasons (72-0-0). Four consecutive ECAC championship titles.

The team inception into the ECAC in 1995 marked the beginning of a Middlebury tradition. Every year the program has improved tremendously. The level of play has increased over the years along with the support from the community. Each season, the team has been unique in it's own way.

The 1998-99 championship team started off this season with the experience of the veteran squad. With the leadership of only three seniors, goalie Kristin Hackmann and co-captains Suzanne Chepren and Janice O'Neil, the presence for a fourth straight title was felt by all. With the addition of a strong freshman class of 10, the goal of achieving a successful season was in sight. The sophomore and junior class knew what had to be done and stepped up to the challenge.

Freshman Catherine Elkins proved that "hockey is fun." She earned the team's rookie of the year status by showing her true talent. Rookie Megan Hutchinson proved that Canadians can play goal after all, with her enthusiasm and devotion, eh? The Minnesota Twins, Nico and Nina Kieves added to the family atmosphere on the team. Susannah Beams gives her rendition of "Barbie on Ice" daily with her smile and her laughter. Ashley Morton and Laurie Richmond proved that sledding will never get in the way of hockey. Virginia Snodgrass added on defense although, what would she do with a million dollars? Lynette Cassidy could always be heard singing from the blue line. Although Anna Hastings might have been intimidated being lined up with a junior and a senior, she had the help of an Asian consultant to soothe the nerves.

The sophomore class of 5—Elissa Burnell, Jenn Bahnson, Michelle Labbe, Sarah Carpenter, and Katie Lynch, show their moves both on the ice and in the locker room.

Enough can't be said about the character and leadership of the junior class. After being abroad in the Fall semester , Catherine Pullins and Kelly Hase jumped right back into the action where they have been ,missed. Beth Denoncourt proved to be strong between the pipes and left many teams scoreless. Christa McDougal used her size and strength on the ice which showed in penalty minutes. Sylvia Ryan made her presence known with her quickness and scoring abilities. Sarah Hall holds the hope of the future of the team in her hands as the sole captain next year.

Senior Kristin Hackmann had defended the Middlebury title in goal for four years. The last game of this year's season, and her career completed her winning streak. Senior co-captain centers Janice O'Neil and Suzanne Chepren have enjoyed four great seasons and led the Panthers to a 72-0-0 undefeated record. The three seniors have had an unbelievable Middlebury career and have made history for Panther Women's Hockey.

The Women's Hockey program could not have seen the success it did without the wisdom and guidance of head coach Bill Mandigo and assistance coach Michelyne Pinard and Andy McPhee.

National Champions

Of the previous five seasons, this championship is the most rewarding because of the camaraderie, dedication, and hard work this team succeeded with. Early season setbacks showed that this team was unique from the championship teams of the past. Where it lacked popular names, it compensated with hard work and a refusal to accept anything but their best in both practice and games. The word rebuilding was eliminated from their vocabulary as the talented freshman class became acclimated to Middlebury Hockey, learning the ingredients of success. In addition, the senior class, Nick Bobrov, Ross Sealfon, Jeff Anastasio, and Brady Priest, heavily contributed to carrying on the tradition that characterized the first four championships.

This season saw a proud close to the historic Duke Nelson Arena and the opening of the glistening Chip Kenyon Arena. Ben Barnett scored the first goal in the Chipper moments after the opening ceremonies and from that point the Panthers picked up the momentum heading into their stretch run. After important victories over Amherst and Plattsburgh the Panthers had to gear up for their season finale at Williams College, It was simple—the winner went to the NCAAs, the loser didn't. What occurred at the Williams Arena that evening was a spectacle never to be forgotten by players and fans alike. Not only did the hundreds of swarming fans dominate a feeble Williams crowd in their own arena, but the team played like never before and the chemistry used to win the past four championships resurfaced that triumphant day.

The Panthers traveled to Wisconsin as the lowest seed in the NCAAs and upset top-ranked St. Norbert College. They played their best hockey of the season and grew closer because of the good times they shared while on the road.

The new bond was transferred into the play of these determined Panthers as they took the ice for the Final Four at in-state rival Norwich University. The Panther's speed, pin-point passing, and intelligence overwhelmed the Rochester Institute of Technology in the NCAA semifinals. Although a Middlebury-Norwich showdown was anticipated, the Cadets would have to wait until next year after falling to the University of Wisconsin Superior in the other semifinal match-up.

The finals proved to be no contest, as the Panther's heart and determination were too much for the Yellowjackets. No Middlebury team had ever won a championship game by more than a goal, but this team set its own precedence by winning the fifth consecutive national title 5-0.

It was only appropriate that the Panthers played their championship game in front of a loyal and boisterous crowd because the support they received was a driving force for the Panthers throughout the season. The dedication and emotion displayed by the fans fueled the spirit of this championship team.

Every year, New Orleans shuts down and throws the party of parties. Mardi Gras is more than just a single day of celebration. It's a state of mind. It all started on the night of Opening Ceremonies. While we got off to a rocky start, we managed to pull together and have an incredible season. From running the gauntlet to starting new traditions, this year was full of unforgettable memories both in and out of the pool. We welcomed thirty new faces who added depth and character to this already crowded but charismatic team. The training trip in Florida, although different from last year's, was still entertaining. Cruising along on our party boat in the Fort Lauderdale Bay, we were first graced by the presence of Duff Records' M5, Middlebury's only six man barbershop quartet. After endless rounds of Don Games on New Years Eve, we barely stayed awake in anticipation of Pete's 7:10 a.m. (and 7:20 a.m.) wake up calls. Our strenuous five days in the sun prepared us for an intense month of training back at Middlebury. Each morning, while the rest of campus was still asleep, we were forced, without the often needed wake-up calls, to brave the cold. The week of -20 degree weather was especially difficult because we had to wake up extra early to warm up our cars. However, all this hard work paid off, as we saw extraordinary results at States, New Englands and NCAAs. Along with the dedicated support among the two teams, Middlebury stood out at both Women's and Men's New Englands. From the spirit of the pink panthers to the wrestless enthusiasm of the men ("bam" dance performances) the women finished third and the men second. This season was particulary impressive and shocking for the men's team in that they beat Amherst at New Englands and left the meet with both the Swimmer of the Meet Award (Jean-Paul Gowdy) and Coach of the Meet Award.

Thanks for a great season, and good luck to all the seniors.
Cheers.
-Meegan and Jackie

SGA Elections April 16, 1999

"The SGA elections brought a new dimension to student politics at Middlebury College purely by the fact that over 70 percent of the student body voted. The results show that the students were looking for a dramatic change in the image and the role of student government. My participation in the election was facilitated by my drive to interact and work with as many students as possible on campus. I believe that running for public office is an experience that utilizes the skills we learn in the classroom: memorization, articulation, research methods, and debating. The election, then, forces candidates to apply those skills to the public sphere in order to garner popular support. The challenges of delivering a public speech, presenting future goals to a student organization, and intruding on the private abode of a person's bedroom attempting to be articulate, all force an individual to examine those skills. The spotlight is always on the candidate. The reaction from the audience--whether it be one person or a crowd--is immediate. Criticism is inherent and therefore does not haunt you, but rather propells you through the next event and the next day."

In only its second year as a varsity sport, the Middlebury softball team faced a challanging spring. First, the team lost senior tri-captain to injury over spring break. The talented pitcher would not see any action in the Panthers 20 game season. Then, mid-way through the season, the Panthers lost first-year Amanda Bohnsack, who at the time of her injury led the team in on-base percentage and extra base hits. Led by coaches Diane Boettcher and Noreen Pecsock, the team faced a much stronger schedule than their previous year, adding NESCAC opponants Wesleyan, Colby, and Bates. For most, the highlights of the season included a 2-1 victory over Colby, homeruns against Southern Vermont by Riann Siciak and tri-captain Janice O'Neil as well as the consistent pitching performances throughout the season by Micheala Love '02.5 and senior Jackie Britt.

The 1999 spring women's tennis team had a triumphant season, yet the excitement and commotion that they aroused is not necessarily over. This year's team, coached by Gail Smith and Bob Martin, was composed of eight freshmen: Katie Angelo, Kimya Gharib, Hilary Johnson, Laura Libby, Ann Lucke, Keidi Robinson, Kyle Wheale, and Deb Willis, and one sophomore; Julie Hand. Thus the youth of the team can only signify more growth in the upcoming years, which will likely convert into additional success.

The two greatest highlights of the season included two all-weekend tournaments. In April the team won all flights of the Middlebury Invitational, a tournament held at Middlebury that draws at least eleven schools every year. The team was also victorious at Wellesley College's Showcase Tournament. The team also picked up more wins than loses in Hilton Head, South Carolina, over spring break.

Certainly the strength of the team lay in its dynamics. The individual players were diverse in styles, strokes, strengths, and weaknesses, but as a whole the women complimented each other very well. On a given day, one player may have been inconsistent, but collectively the group worked well together to fill in the gaps.

The inexperience of the team was a potential disadvantage, yet the women converted it to be a positive attribute. Inexperience only provided the team with more encouragement to see exactly what they could do, without any previous preconceptions. However in the years to come as the team acquires more experience, I can only imagine that they will be a force to be reckoned with in New England.

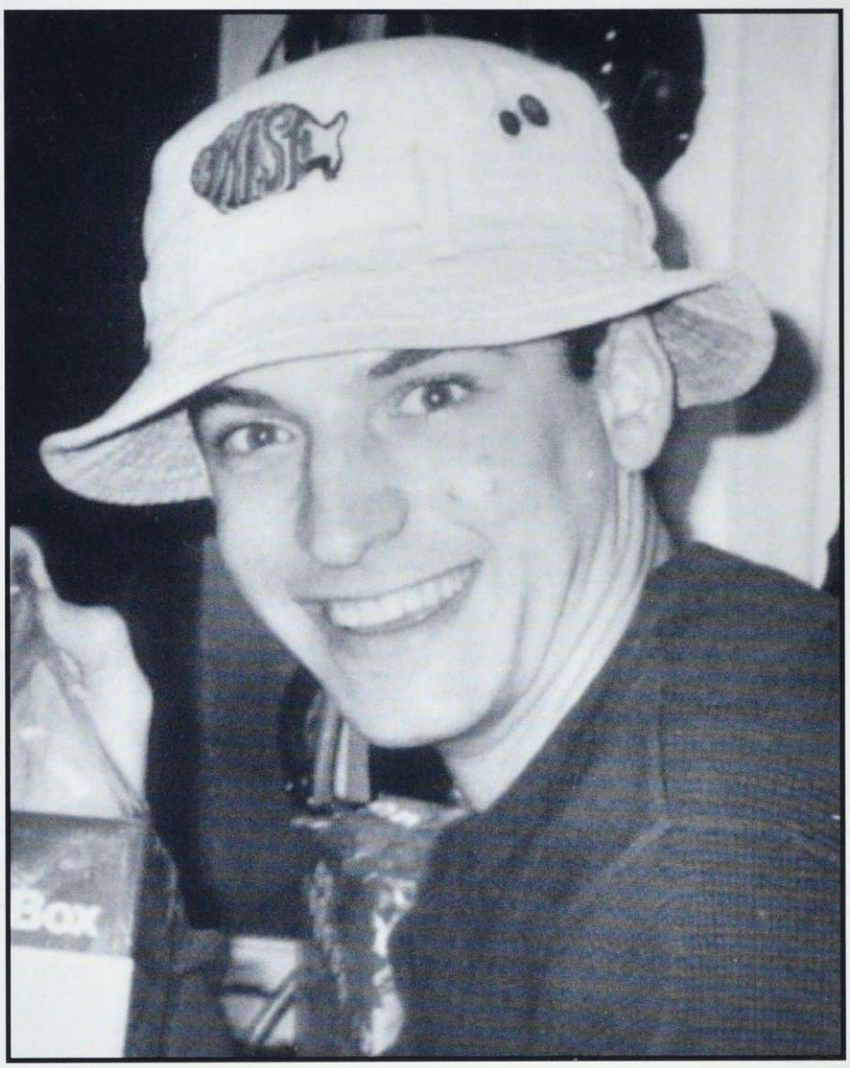
The Class of 1999 remembers Scott Margolin



"I will be more adventurous and less afraid to make mistakes, thereby increasing my breadth of experience. I will take all but the most essential aspects of life less seriously, illiminating unnecessary worry and stress. I will take vacations more often, climb more mountains, sail more seas, and sit down at night to watch the sun set...."

-Scott Margolin

Taken from his application essay

In Memory of Christine A. Guilmet
Class of 2001

"It is important to know that I will never be bored. There simply are not enough hours in a day to ponder all of the things which intrigue me. Truely, I rarely have time to explore even one of them. When I do get the chance, however, I often contemplate the existence of stars.

Perhaps the reason that stars intrigue me so is because we are so similar in composition and appearance. From a distance, the star has a seemingly cool surface, tranquil, bright, and inviting. It is difficult, at first, to grasp the concept that there is anything beyond that, but when one looks more closely, it is evident that this body is an everchanging melange of fiery gases.

There is the same fire behind my own calm facade. This fire includes both an insatiable hunger for knowledge, and a burning motivation. I know that with time a star eventually fades away, yet it is still able to leave its own subtle mark on the universe. I would like to think that I could be similarly described."

-Christine Guilmet, Taken from her application essay

To OFD/S:

You left your old home in Chicago
In search of the great things you should know--
You've read books by the yard,
Some Chaucer, some bard,
Some Milton, some Blake, some Thoreau.

It's been four years of work -- and some leisure.
You have so many things you can treasure.
The garage and the Bay,
Lots of frisbee to play,
And a touch of the Scots for good measure.

And the friends - what a wonderful bunch.
We've enjoyed every dinner and lunch.
Our pride is immense.
Your hard work and good sense
Will lead to great things, we've a hunch.

Much love - YFF

To My Kerri,

"This diamond and this topaz have been bonded together. The gold arms of the topaz hold the diamond to accentuate its beauty and uniqueness. Many do not see this in the diamond, for they are drawn to the glitzy superficial stones that shine for a short time. The topaz sees through the diamond, knowing it is true, and sees all of its potential. The topaz, despite its much larger size, keeps the diamond in front of it to let it shine. The diamond protects the topaz even though it is smaller. The topaz, meanwhile, holds the diamond to keep it secure. They have no secrets, for they are too close and too lucid to do so. If the diamond broke off the ring, the center of the topaz (its heart) would be permanently scarred; and the diamond, no matter how strong, would be lost forever."

With love and Admiration,
Mom

Dear Kim,

At a time like this we can't help but to look back over the years and feel tremendous love and pride. You've always set such high goals for yourself and worked as hard as anyone we've ever known to achieve them. As you set off to follow your dreams, take our love and support with you.

Dear Jen and Chris:

You have brought great joy to our lives:
Your potential as newborn babes
Enchantment in your eyes as you fed in our arms
Wonder in "finger testing" a Cheerio or pea
The trust of your small hands in ours
Sharing in your achievements
    As you took your first steps,
    Sped through the water,
    Or hurled down a ski race course.
You have renewed our lives
    By sharing your appreciation of the wilderness and courage when engaging foreign cultures,
    By seeking out the best in others
    And marveling at the froggies along the path of life.
No greater joy can there be for us than knowing you to be
    The kind, caring and courageous adults you have become,
    Contributing to the world through your life-saving and spirt-giving concerns for others.

God-blessed are we to be the parents of you, our inspiration.

Love you nmw

Missy, your college years have brought us more excitement and joy than we had ever imagined. It was like we were able to relive our college experience all over again, without having to take the exams or write all the papers. It was a thrill of a lifetime as these pictures so aptly capture. We hope your children will bring you as much happiness as you have given us.

Special Thanks to Francy and Mark!

This is my fourth Middlebury yearbook and I couldn't tell you which one I liked the best. This one is bitter sweet. This sunday I am in the yearbook office trying to do this page before tomorrow's deadline (and so that I can go out and party tonight). Next sunday is Graduation. Well, I'll have to say goodbye to Middlebury before I finish the Senior Week and Graduation pages... I had fun doing all this (not a lot of fun, but some!) And I am happy and sad to see it end. Thanks to this year's staff and good luck to next year's! Thanks to all the parents and friends who donated money and ads! Thanks to the Finance Committee for actually giving me money! And, most of all thanks to all my friends who chilled out in Adirondack basement with me! Thanks guys... I would not have come down here to do this if you hadn't forced me to go! Thanks again, and I hope everyone has enjoyed our book! --Meg
